

John Wesley Letters in Previous Editions and Published Locations
Wesley Works Editorial Project
last updated: June 20, 2024

This following list documents where transcriptions of surviving letters of John Wesley have been published. Since the Wesley Works project is the most complete and accurate edition, the list is based on the location of the published transcription in that edition. Readers can scan the line for each letter to see where it was contained in previous editions. Note: Some of the ‘letters’ in previous editions were actually books or pamphlets. These, and a few of Wesley’s ‘public letters’ appear in the Works edition in a volume on the appropriate subject, rather than in the volumes of letters. This location is indicated below in red font.

In addition to collected volumes of Wesley’s letters, in the ‘other’ column we list early publication of transcriptions of individual Wesley letters in journals, newspapers, and other settings (by short titles – see full details at end of file). This enables readers to determine the earliest publication date for the various holographs.

Bibliographical Details on Editions of Wesley’s Collected Letters

Joseph Benson (ed.), The Works of the Rev. John Wesley, 2nd edn., 16 vols. (London: Cordeux, 1813).

Thomas Jackson (ed.), The Works of the Rev. John Wesley, A.M., 3rd edn., 14 vols. (London: Nichols for Mason, 1829–31).

Thomas Jackson (ed.), The Works of the Rev. John Wesley, A.M., 4th edn., 14 vols. (London: John Mason, 1840–42).

George Eayrs (ed.), Letters of John Wesley: A Selection. London: Hodder and Stoughton, 1915.

John Telford (ed.), The Letters of the Rev. John Wesley, A.M., 8 vols. (London: Epworth, 1931).

Frank Baker, et al., The Works of John Wesley; begun as ‘The Oxford Edition of The Works of John Wesley’ (Oxford: Clarendon Press, 1975–1983); continued as ‘The Bicentennial Edition of The Works of John Wesley’ (Nashville: Abingdon, 1984—)

⁴Telford repeats the second paragraph of JW's Sept. 8, 1761 letter to [Grace Walton?] as a separate letter to Sarah Ryan, dated Nov. 12. There is no other evidence of such a second separate letter, or of JW's correspondence with Ryan at this time.

¹²Telford mistakenly duplicated a letter to Knapp, which he included under proper year of 1789; mistake replicated in 29:478.

¹³Telford mistakenly repeats some text in the June 19 letter to Bradburn as a letter to Samuel Bardsley dated the same day; cf. WHS 34 (1964): 50.

¹⁷Telford duplicates a letter to Thomas Rutherford, given earlier with the suggested date of Nov. 30, 1781 (7:94). He suggests preference for this later date in a note (8:280), but the earlier date seems more likely given Rutherford’s separate location from his wife evident in the 1781 Minutes (Works, 10:510–11).

¹⁸Telford includes a letter here as addressed to CW, dated Mar. 22, 1783. It is the letter described in WHS 9 (1914): 126 as owned in 1911 by Sir Ernest H. Lamb. It is most likely the letter (dated Mar. 10) that now resides Wesley's Chapel (London), LDWMM 1994/1968. This letter is not in JW's hand; and it lists the place of origin as Birmingham, while JW was in Bristol in Mar. 1783. Moreover, there three other copies of this letter which remove the specific name of the addressee and have different dates: two are held at Pitts Library (Emory), John Wesley Collection (MSS 153), dated Nov. 15, 1779 (folder 4/44) and Oct. 7, 1787 (folder 3/37); the fourth, dated Oct. 9, 1789, is held at Oxford, ²⁸Telford duplicates a letter to Adam Clarke that he included on the correct date of Nov. 26, 1789 (8:188). He was following Benson and Jackson in this later dating, but the earlier date is correct; see comment WHS 32 (1959): 41.

²⁹Telford duplicates a letter to Ann Bolton included earlier (7:358) under the correct date of Dec. 15, 1786.
